My neighbors thought it a humbug, and I feared it was no better. But I commenced taking it, I teapoontul at a dose and after taking the first dose I had no more desire for morphine. It is now about three months since I began to take the Antidote and I don't seem to want either morphine or the antidote—but I am not as well as I sick, and I am three years older. And I have some Antidote left and I take some every day, not because I feel the want of it, but because I have it.

I have gained in flesh from 115 to 147 1-2 pounds, and my appelite is good—I fear a little roo good.

And P. Collines' antidote has done this, for I have taken nothing else. And I can recommend his antidote to anybody that wants to be cured, as an infallible remedy if directions are followed.

TOVIL THE LIBERIAN WAR

The latest arwa from Liberia is not enouraging. The result of this battle imperils the very existence of the republic. All the onicr settlements have been attractored. The forces of the republic are now with-out cannon and ammunition, and they will not make another attack under such circumstances. The captured guns were speedily turned on a defenseless Liberian town. The treasury is empty, and the republic's credit well nigh exhausted. It thus becomes possible to maintain a large force for any length of time, and if it is not main day at tained the natives will overrun the country. The whole situation is ex-

The president, or late president of Liberia, being in London, was induced to make an agreement with an English company, whereby that compasy should have a monopoly of the Liberian trade. The agreement so made was opposed by the Liberians, and a ratificution of it was emphatically rejected by the legislature; thereupon the agent of the company began intriguing with lic, and claimed a right of traffic and transit through the territory of Liberia independently of any regulation by th government; and this being resisted, the agents of the company have stimulated and encouraged the natives to make plundering and murderous forays on the Liberian people and territory.

The Grebos and their allies are now banded together for the purpose of de stroying the republic. This cruel and powerful array of natives is supplied on the arrival of every English steamer from down the coast with quantities of ammunition and guns. Gen. Grant has dispatched a vessel of war to the Liberian coast but it will hardly be very effective in dispersing the interior tribes who are moving on the hapless little republic. It begins to look as if the attempt to divilize Africa by people descended from her own soil must be abandoned. Perry were going to their work, blasting lime rock from a ledge situated in the edge of Stratton, they noticed the tracks of a wild animal. Supposing they belonged to a bear they concluded to follow them for a short distance to satisfy their curiosity. These soon led into a piece of village of West Wardsboro. Fitts and his companion abandoned their search, intending to secure help and follow it the next morning. Saturday morning, the hunters, about sixteen in all, armed with rifles, shot guns, and revolvers, and accompanied by several dogs, started for the animal. They first passed around the woods to make sure that the supposed bear had not left his lair, and then the whole place was surrounded with a chain of armed men to prevent his escape if he should make a break for the mountains. Twelve of a break for the mountains. Twelve of the hunters were thus arranged, while Messrs. Fitts, Perry and H. W. Johnson with two boys and four dogs entered the woods to sift up the beast. The dogs were kept back by ropes until the proper time and place should be reached, and the hunt commenced. The trail of the previous evening was soon struck, and in a few minutes they came upon the half devoured remains of a hedgehog.
